

Climate thoughts and the collective consciousness

We at Inspire Academy view the world as a market place, a kind of multi-theatre and a platform from which we travel through a life of threads, entwined and spun from the purest gold. Assumptions of coincidences are not something we take into account in our stories of life. No, all these threads are lightly and meticulously placed and these we follow, mostly unconsciously, however with increasing consciousness.

Just as with our lives, events and happenings each day are placed into these threads like little crumbs of bread as in the fairy tale of Hans and Gretel. They are placed so we can find our way and lose our way. They are there in order for us to lose them and lose our footing and they are there to give us ideas for our creativity to enable us to see all possibilities ahead of us and all the potential within us.

Sometimes it may seem as though the days just pass and events are random. They may be lovely and beautiful. They may be unpleasant and terrifying.

Our life and all it contains is a predicted event, and from a spiritual point of view a glimpse in time, however extremely important and beautiful, seen from a larger perspective.

We have a lot of roles to play. And it is not only us as individuals who have roles to play, also countries, continents, planets and solar systems play their roles. A concept also has a role to play in the big "equation". Love is a role that is enacted at innumerable levels. Hate. Everything fits in. Breathes in and out with all that is. Everything - is one big breath – like a being with all its components that fit together in intrinsic ways in order to expand and contract. Like one simple breath.

A relationship also has a kind of role to play. The prime minister has a role to play – but also the word itself carries a lot with it.

Viewing the dynamics of life in this way, it is interesting to consider what takes place at the Climate Conference in Copenhagen. It is interesting that Copenhagen was given the role as the country meant to contain the concept CLIMATE – AND contain the world press. What country can bear to contain a concept, a subject – that has an influence on the whole world – on Earth? Denmark? Who else?

By observing the "Climate rave", everything is carefully planned on a collective level. The incidents happen and we at Inspire Academy are not surprised. So we look at the focus of the newspapers and the role they play, and then the role of the TV media and their focus. Everything is in order. A delightful drama is being created in our golden threads spun many trillion years ago. It is also interesting to see how the movie world plays along, with movies about aliens from other planets – and often preferably evil – and are we supposed to be afraid? But there are also movies that prepare us for events and discoveries that are already inherent in our common threads along the path we tread.

2012 – Apocalypsis is a genius movie to have as a world premiere release shortly before the start of the Climate Conference.

The prophecy of the Mayans of the influence of the Sun starting a completely new time era. Extinguishing the population of Earth. Has anybody considered the power of the collective consciousness in all this? The Mayans had an idea – a vision – a prophecy. For some, 2012 is about change of consciousness, ascension to the 5th dimension. In other words, something taking place on the inner levels, experienced/sensed by some and not by others. According to some people 2012 is Doomsday where the world is purified and the poles shifted. For some it is like the movie 2012 – the end of the human race.

What if of the Mayans were right? But that the collective consciousness – loving a good drama – has twisted the prophecy? Imagine these golden threads woven across this matrix that we live in. These golden threads have the potential for development and beautiful events in “the future” (seen from a linear perspective) but also as a change of consciousness – a higher understanding of “all that is”. But if we pull at them a bit – and we are a critical mass that pulls them in a certain direction. That is, if we in our collective consciousness agree that “The World will come to an end in 2012”, “The Climate is in a bad state”. “The ice is melting and we’ll all drown” or “The Aliens will come and devour our brains”. Well, then we are the ones with the greatest power to make that happen. The Matrix only understands wishes, energy, potentials – through our way of creating. And if we place our energy in thoughts that destroy and go in circles, then that is what is being created.

Therefore it is interesting to observe the matrix they chose to move around in at the Conference Meeting. It is interesting to observe that China, before all had come to an end, was convinced it would end with disappointments and no deals. What good is to be found in this statement - other than to pull at the threads with the beautiful potential and instead cause a detour? This is the way the human brain mostly works, it tends to pay more attention to thoughts of failure. China pulls the threads and announces “failure” and everybody else sings along in their thoughts. And so Failure is created.

Thoughts create. We must be open and clear to see our golden threads as they are placed with the idea of the best potential. It is always present, however we must remember to think it and inspire others to think along.
